Great overview of the program initiative, this is much needed in the industry both public and private sector are creating Chief Privacy Officer roles and having more guidance on the privacy outcome to help them build programs around would be well-received.

CSF project was very successful and easy to understand so one piece of feedback is not to reinvent the wheel. So leveraging a similar structure of “Functions, Categories, Sub Categories and Informative References” would be easy to follow since this structure is well cemented in our mind.

Informative references would map to other existing privacy framework for more prescriptive execution.

So your workshop efforts would be what would be the functions, Cat, etc. and continue with workshops on the comprehensive buildout
