

From: Ed Roth [mailto:patedroth@hotmail.com]
Sent: Tuesday, October 18, 2011 12:37 PM
To: amtech
Subject: AM Tech Comments

Comment #1

The latest GD&T standard, ASME Y14.5 2009, will cost all of us Manufacturing more than I can calculate. It contains materials that only a group of theoreticians could come up with. None on the committee have any manufacturing understanding, and the standard will delay our climb out of our current long term attempts to improve manufacturing innovation. Look for my coming article in MANUFACTURING ENGINEERING.

Comment #2

Why has the proud of profession of metrology been deleted from the preferred list of government professions?

Ed Roth, Past President, SME