

Carl Sobieralski is the Director of Forensic Analysis for the Indiana State Police Laboratory System (ISPL). Prior to his current position, he was the DNA Technical Leader for the biology section of the ISPL for over 20 years. Carl Received his B.S. in Biology from Indiana University at South Bend in 1989 and a M.S. in Biology from Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI) in 1996. Prior to Joining ISPL in 1990, Carl work as a Sr. Research Technician for the IU medical center. Carl started his career as a forensic serologist for ISPL and was appointed as one of the first members of the ISPL DNA unit in 1992. He helped establish, develop, and validate the DNA testing program for the ISPL. He was appointed supervisor and DNA TL in 2001. He has 34 years of forensic science experience primarily in forensic biology. He is a member of Midwestern Association of Forensic Scientists and a member of American Society for Laboratory Directors. He is certified by the American Board of Criminalistics as a Diplomate in General Knowledge since 2000. Carl has served as a member of the OSAC in the human forensic biology committee and was the chair of different task groups during that time. He then was appointed as vice chair and then his current position as the FSSB Biology SAC Chair.